FIRST FRIDAY AT
Two Rivers ART GALLERY
 FEATURING...
ARTIST GINGER REDDINGTON
January 3, 5pm-8pm
 Music by guitarist Brian Ohme
 and Kyla Colon on violin
 Complimentary refreshments

Ginger Reddington is a professional artist working out of her home studio in Twisp, WA. Through a multi-step process, she creates paintings with depth, movement and jewel like colors, which make them truly unique.

Ginger is a Washington native and has been an art educator throughout Washington State. She spends as much time as possible out of doors and in the mountains usually on the back of a horse.

In addition to the works available at Two Rivers Gallery, her paintings are on display in various regional exhibits and at her studio.

Welcome to my show.

Our first show in the new year featured Twisp artist Ginger Reddington and over 40 other local and regional artists.

Ginger has a unique way of painting with rich acrylic colors.

Music was provided by Brian Ohme and Kyla Colon.

Another well attended show at Two Rivers...

Time to refresh...

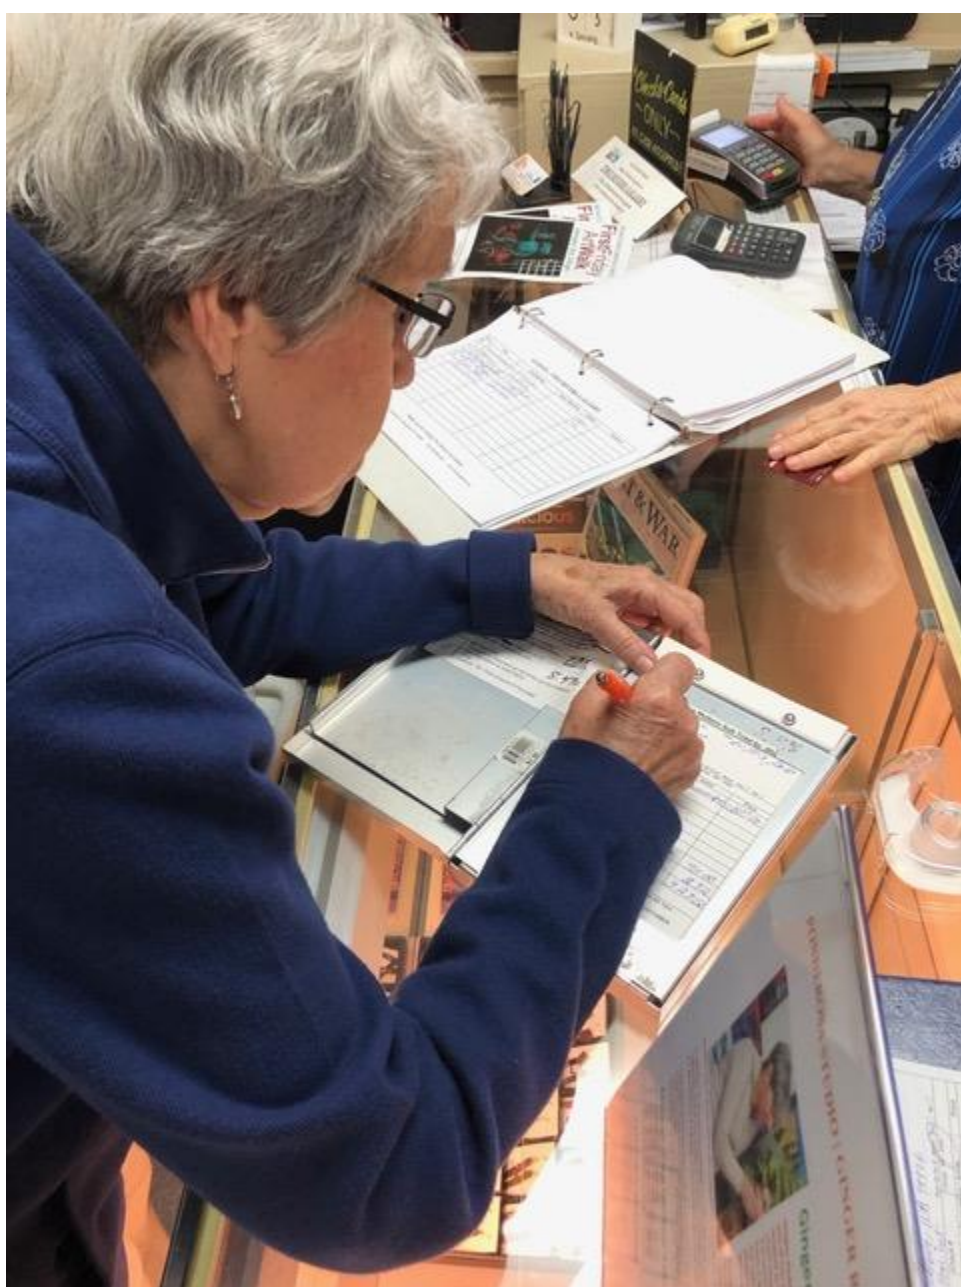

Our first sale was made by Joe Russell. He purchased Jim O'Dell's metallic flower. Joe retired from driving seniors to our First Friday receptions.

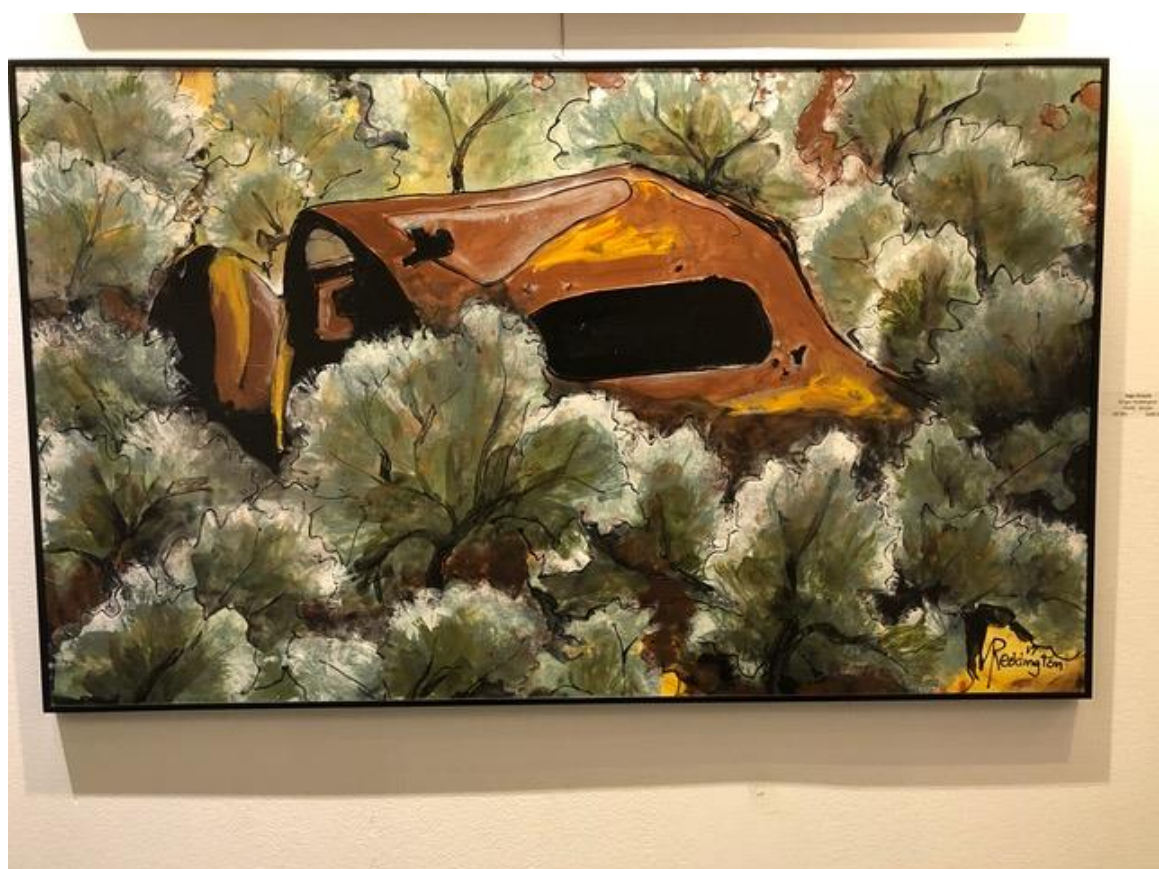

Folks were pleased by our new show...

...this couple was enjoying a painting by next month's artist Barbara Conner Reed.

Patricia Plumb, who often attends First Friday, makes a necklace purchase created by Eileen Thompson.

Ginger's subjects are often amusing, such as 'Sage Grouch'...

Her chicken series includes 'The Cackle'.

Peter Yunker loved this oil painting of Mt Shuksan by Albert Kissler. Congrats to both.

This young lady made notes about a Reddington she likes.

Russ Hepler dropped in to have snacks and say hello to Ginger.
Russ sets each of our shows at Two Rivers.
Ginger Reddington's exhibit will continue through February 1.
