

TWO RIVERS GALLERY

FIRST FRIDAY

Opening Reception October 1, 2021

Roger Willey, Nature & Wildlife Artist

FIRST FRIDAY ~ OCTOBER 1, 2021
Two Rivers ART GALLERY
Featuring Roger Willey
October 1st-28th

I've loved art since childhood which has continued through all of my adult years. Oil painting became my passion in my early 20's and remained so until I began to move into acrylics about 8 years ago.

Nature and wildlife have been my main subjects as well as old barns and trucks. Over the last several years painting native American scenes has become something I really enjoy.

I am totally self taught except for basic art classes which almost all students participate in during their school years.

First Friday - October 1, 5pm-8pm
Live music by Pop duo Pat Thompson and Glenn Isaacson
Local Wines by Horan Estates

Gallery Hours: Wed - Sat: 11-4 pm Sunday: 1-4 pm

Our First Friday celebration of art and artists continues today after 7 months of limiting our exposure to social events.

Enjoying getting together, Roger Willey meets up outside the gallery as folks arrived for his show.

Inside we are welcomed to live music performed by pianist Glenn Isaacson and bassist Pat Thompson. Feels so good to get back to a normal party atmosphere at the gallery.

We offered wine from Horan Estate Winery. Adelle Johnson reports that we had many compliments about their Syrah and Rose'. We also had many compliments about the 60 artists whose works are on exhibit this month.

Wine pourers Terry Johnson and Dean Rainey both assisted with the wine. Congratulations to Terry for winning First Place in the Museum's art contest. His clay pot and other winners can be seen starting Saturday at Wenatchee Valley Museum.

Welcome to Terri Timpe sitting next to her cat painting. Terri volunteered to help us with getting support grants for the gallery. We are waiting to hear if we are recipients of two grants Terri has helped us with.

Standing in front of her uncle Walter Graham's painting is our treasurer Denise Marker. If your art sells you will be receiving a check from her.

Robin McMannis finds a painting to take home. The print bin has some treasures and some are original paintings. Her husband also found a painting of two bunnies by Barbara Conner Reed that needed a home.

Sarah Grubich brought the family for an art experience. Tarron got to ride and Wilder had fun leading the way. Sarah is an artist and plans to join us on the 29/30 Entry.

It's great to be open again for First Fridays. Carole Hiatt reported light sales, however, on Saturday, four of Warren Bissonette's clay sculptures sold quickly.

As we were closing at 8pm a group of young ladies dropped in on their way from the Collapse Gallery. Looks like it was girls' night out.

Roger's dad, Mike (96) attended his son's show. Mike was telling us about his experiences in the U.S. Navy and Army in WWII. He is very proud of his son.

Roger Willey's show will continue through October 28.

Entry for the November/December exhibit will be October 29 & 30 from 11am-3pm.
