

TWO RIVERS GALLERY

Presents

Our annual Wenatchee Watercolor Society Exhibit

Welcome to our show

The exhibit includes a watercolor painting by each of twenty-five of its members.

The Watercolor Society is open to all who want to develop their painting experience. They meet at 9:30am the second Thursday of each month at Ridgeline Graphics.

Two Rivers is 'the place' to meet artists who live here in North Central Washington.

Every month our show includes live music from fine musicians who help set the atmosphere. Thanks to Jac Tiechner and Steve Sanders of 'Well Strung'.

Sold! A watercolor by Nicki Isaacson went home today.

It got crowded as folks came to see the new show, visit with friends, and check out the large selection of refreshments we provide.

We were visited by art lovers from the Link Transit Art tour bus. Maria Hansen, Link executive assistant (center) and Selina Danko, Link's coordinator (right). Link is providing free transportation each First Friday to art events. To sign up, call 664-7624, sdanko@linktransit.com.

Making their first visit together to Two Rivers are Christi Beach, Community Services Assistant at Wenatchee Valley Chamber of Commerce and her husband Hiram.

It's a thumbs up to the show.

We serve bubbly, non-alcohol drinks in the 'Western Room'.

Thanks each month goes to our generous members who provide the food table and to Carole Hiatt and Adelle Johnson who present it tastefully.

Missing from our show this month is Jean Knox who passed away. She was an avid member of the Watercolor Society and active in the gallery.

Missing too is artist Jon Browder who's wonderful children's book is on sale at the gallery, thanks to Carol Brewer and Adelle Johnson who colorized Jon's unfinished book found after his death.

A copy of 'Best in The World' (bottom right) shows that Two Rivers Gallery was chosen by Wenatchee World readers to be their choice for best art gallery.
