

TWO RIVERS GALLERY FIRST FRIDAY

Opening Reception

December 3, 2021

Featuring Artist

Rod Weagant

Twisp, WA.

One of the first folks through the door spotted all the eye candy the gallery provides.

Music for the evening was harpist Suzanne Grassell.

Suzanne brought her children to get experience performing.
Eric played several Christmas songs on his violin.
In the center of the room Mirrabelli wood sculptures are now on sale at 25% off until Christmas.

Next up was Annalise who started playing several years ago with her small harp.

John came last with his guitar. Playing in front of an audience is important in advancing musical skills. Thanks to mom for sharing the kids at Two Rivers Gallery.

Jan Cook Mack came to Rod's show. Jan was one of many folks who came to meet Rod and see his work.

SOLD! The first of Rod's oil paintings sold as the gallery opened on Wednesday. You may recognize Mount Stuart and Stuart Lake in the Alpine Lakes Wilderness above Leavenworth.

37 Cellars was featured for those who enjoy wine.
Terri Timpe sits with her mom, Adelle.

SOLD! Rod's "Dalias" were the first sale of the evening.

The Mulhalls decided to leave the painting for others to enjoy until the end of the month but took home a painting by Sarah Grubich who was showing for the first time.

Looking over a painting that looks like a photograph from 10 feet and on close-up inspection shows the painting strokes of an expert artist. The work is amazingly done without detail of individual leaves. This is a must-see work of art.

Steve Schwind spoke with Rod about his work. Steve is planning to join the gallery as a member at our entry on December 30/31, 11am-3pm.

Rod Weagant's show will continue until the 29th of this month.
