

TWO RIVERS GALLERY

IN CASE YOU MISSED

JANUARY FIRST FRIDAY

The art of Russ Hepler

Non-Objective Abstract Art on Panel

"Welcome to my show!"

The January/February show exhibits the talent of over 45 local and regional artists. Two Rivers Gallery artists, Dan McConnell and Nicki Isaacson created calendars that include some of their artistry. They will be available until sold out.

Elizabeth Hirsch joined the gallery with a family membership. She and two family members entered watercolors and an acrylic family pet this month.

A large number of visitors attended tonight's gallery opening. The evening temperature was more like autumn, and it felt like everyone was celebrating the New Year.

Jeff Justice and his wife visit with cousin Don Scheiner and Betsey Staller.

Mike Bills played and sang many favorite songs. Mike is scheduled to be back in July for Barry Benbow's show.

Jessica Drake, Wenatchee World, attended with photographer Loren Benoit. She visited with Russ Hepler and arranged an interview with him for next week.

Tonight, mother and daughter, Adelle and Terri, are serving Wenatchee Valley's fine local wines. 39 glasses were sold. It takes a dozen sales to cover the cost of the State license of $60 per month.

In one room we see works by Jan Cook Mack, Marsha Thornton, Marilyn Fisher, Warren Bissonette, along with prints that include tarot cards by Tara Bailey.

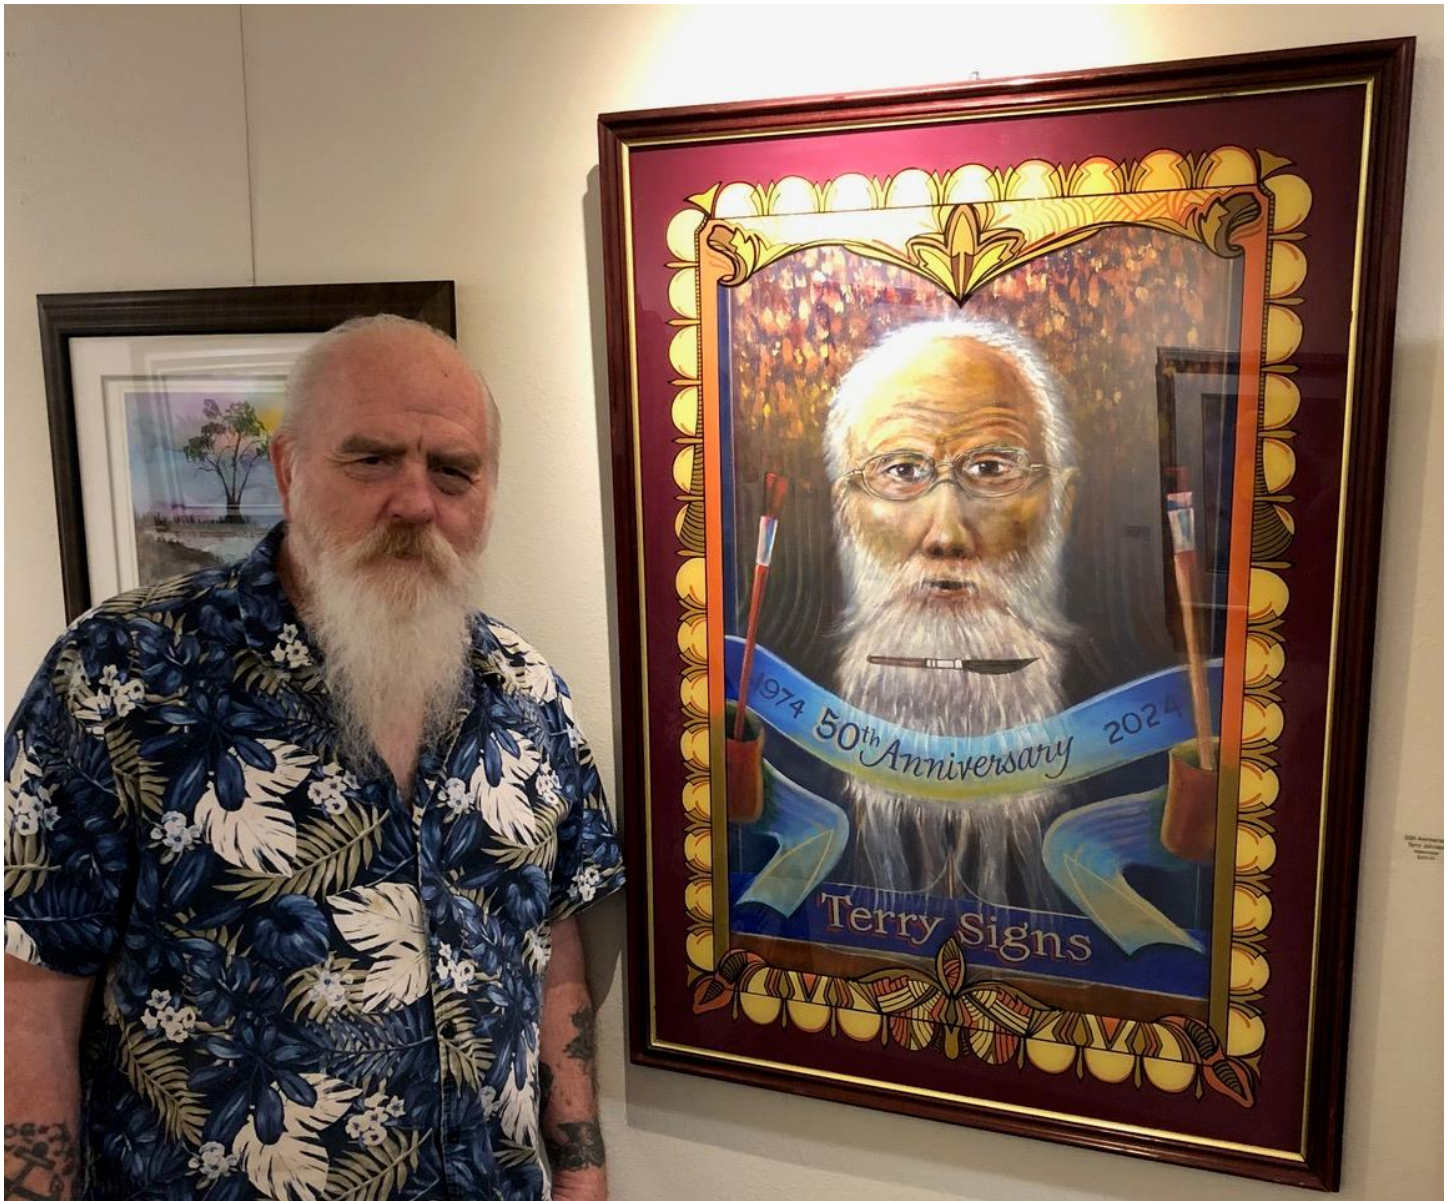

Ryan Keesee came to show paintings he plans to enter for the March/April show. He couldn't enter his work last week as he didn't want to expose anyone to what he thought he might be coming down with. Thanks, Ryan, for being considerate and we hope to see your paintings in March.

SOLD!. A painting by Cindy Uhrich was purchased by Maureen Stivers of Wenatchee. She recognizes the landscape as having unusual color in the spring and fall.

Sold! Marilyn Fisher fell in love with this cat created by Warren Bissonnette. She said she'd be in later to pick up another cat to keep this one company.

Terry Johnson entered this self-portrait showing that he is celebrating 50 years as Wenatchee's sign maker and artist of many talents.

SOLD! Larry and Susan Kimmel wanted this Russ Hepler for their home.

Russ Hepler's show will continue until January 28.

John Barrett came to visit the show tonight and invites any artist who wants to show at Pybus Market Art Alley. John said the spots are already filled until 2025
