June 7, 2019

Featuring artist Suzi Lane. Suzi welcomes you to her show.

A Sunny Spot

Two days before her reception one of her paintings sold to a Renton visitor.

The next day

SOLD!..... a print from her print bin

Linda Claeson checks out Suzi's print bin.

Harpist Suzanne Grassell played and will return in December.
How can a listener become more relaxed ?

Our youngest member Lucy Korzh stands in front of her two award winning paintings.

Sasha Syssoeva exhibits her three latest paintings. Sasha is a para legal with the Washington State Attorney General.

The print bin in the Western Room was a popular spot.

Dr. Fineman from Confluence Health having fun in the abstract show room.

Here I am

Andy Lane, Suzi's husband, shows one of her watercolors. It shows Suzi climbing a rock wall in the Peshastin Pinnacles. She calls it 'Andy's Toe' because if you look closely it shows his bare toe as he relays her from above.

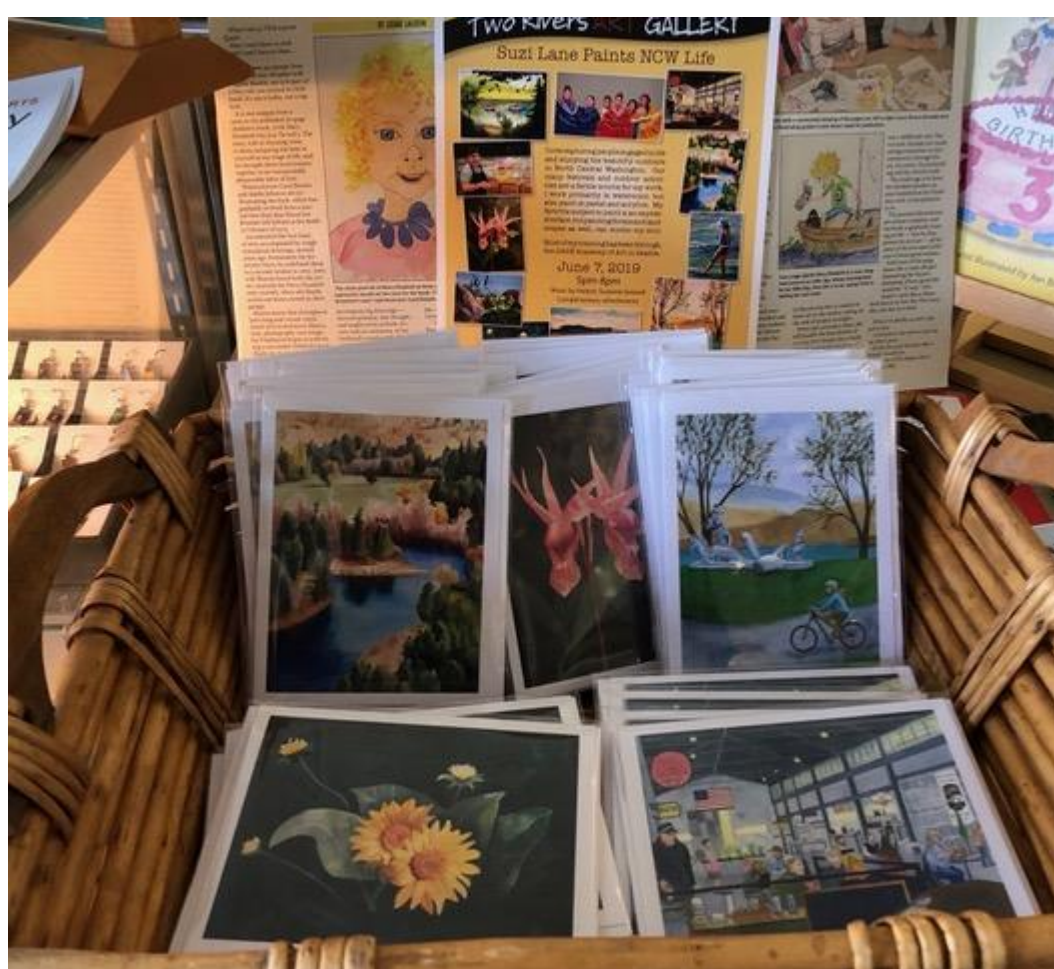

Carmen Hoffmann picks out a pair of earrings.

Suzi shows her painting of the "Norma Danzas Multicultural Group" to Noemi Martinez who is also a Danza dancer.

Large crowds filled the gallery at times including a bus load of art lovers from Bonaventure in East Wenatchee. The evening was also filled with graduation ceremonies from both high schools.

Suzi brought a basket of greeting cards of her paintings that were popular.

Jaana Hatton invites artists to paint the Lavender farm this Sunday and Monday.

The plein air contest is in celebration of the 90th year Herman and Ruth Ohme purchased 40 acres of the land for an orchard and started an alpine garden that has become a 9 acre alpine oasis in our arid climate and has been chosen one of the three best public gardens. The gardens are now a Chelan County park and center for many community activities.

Suzi Lane Paints NCW Life

I love capturing people engaged in life and enjoying the beautiful outdoors in North Central Washington. Our many festivals and outdoor activities are a fertile source for my work. I work primarily in watercolor, but also paint in pastel and acrylics. My favorite subject to paint is an expressive face, but painting florals and landscapes as well, can soothe my soul.

Most of my training has been through the GAGE Academy of Art in Seattle.
