FEATURING Nicki Isaacson, Watercolorist

Here is some of what happened at Two Rivers from 5pm - 8pm on Friday

This month features over 50 artists from the Wenatchee Valley and throughout North Central Washington. Other artists throughout the state also participate in our nonprofit art gallery composed of over 100 members ranging from emerging artists to advanced professionals known throughout the Northwest.

Over 20 years of Isaacson's painting provides us with the fine art of watercolor.
Nicki's work is sophisticated and determined artistry.

Many friends of art dropped in to support the show.

A dozen of Isaacson's paintings are found in her calendar.

Nicki has many works in print form and note cards.

SOLD: Tulip Tango was sold to an art collector.

Music by Connie Celustka on hammered dulcimer. We are pleased that Connie returns each year. She will play the recorder accompanied by one of her students on harp at our April show.

Thanks to the generosity of Horan Estates Winery. Their tasting room is just a walk away from our gallery. Back from her European trip is Adelle assisted by Terry tonight.

“Look Honey, there are red dots on two of Nicki’s paintings”.

John Gregor, Nicki's brother, (right) from Beaufort South Carolina is here to support his sister. He is meeting Becky and sculptor James Moore. James is a bronze artist who moved from Colorado to Wenatchee and has his art works in several galleries including the Howard/Mandville Gallery in Woodenville, WA and the Raitman Galleries, Vail CO plus 7 other galleries.

We hope that he will consider showing with Two Rivers Gallery.

On Exhibit by Nicki is the original painting and print of the winning 2016 Pybus Market poster contest.

Nicki also has on exhibit prints of her 2023 painting for the Washington State Apple Blossom Festival. Come get a form request for a canvas print of her painting. She is also presenting her winning Apple Blossom print from 2015.

Out hanging in the West Wing is an Isaacson watercolor reminding us that her show ends on October 28. All gallery members will begin ENTRY on Sunday the 29th and Monday the 30th of October for our November/December show.

That concludes our First Friday show. Our docent Terri Meenach was very busy tonight and has reported sales of Nicki Isaacson's art to be $1109. Many cards and prints went home with happy visitors. Her original paintings that sold will remain on exhibit.
