

TWO RIVERS GALLERY FIRST FRIDAY

Opening Reception November 5, 2021

Lake Chelan Artist, Leslie Myers

Welcome to my show

Tonight's music is performed by Connie Celustka on hammered dulcimer.

Connie has made and played dulcimers for many years and teaches music at Wenatchee Valley College. She was the first musician to play at First Friday events over 12 years ago. We thank all our talented musicians who have donated their time to help make our receptions a fun and enjoyable experience.

As people came to see the show they were greeted by Leslie and her husband Gary. Visiting an art gallery may be a first experience for some. We met some newcomers and some who never miss a gallery event.

Wines were provided by Stimilt Creek Winery.
Vira Bowman and brother-in-law Kelly Bowman toast the Sweet Adeline and Stemilt Creek's Cabernet Sauvignon. Kelly, a photographer, is considering a gallery membership.

Lake Chelan friends dropped in to support Leslie's show. Also in the photo are wood sculptures by Milo Mirabelli, on sale until Christmas at 25% off.

Cartoonist Dan McConnell brought in a creation in time for Halloween. The gallery has art of 51 of its members now on exhibit for November/December.

As we opened the mail this evening, we were pleased to find a $3000 check from the Pitts-McConnell Fund and from Woods Family Music and Art Endowment. The results of our next grant application will come at the end of the month.

Congrats to Terry Johnson who just received $1000 this evening at a Museum awards event. Terry won First Place for one of the ceramic pots he entered in their annual art contest.

Gary Myers stands next to 'The House That Jack Built'.
The house can be found at Stehekin on Lake Chelan.
Gary was KPQ Radio's noon newsmen and worked there over 20 years.

Leslie Myers show is affordably priced and will continue through November 27.

Our December featured artist is Rod Weagant, who's show begins next First Friday, December 3.
