Wenatchee Chamber Membership Has Value

The Wenatchee Valley Chamber of Commerce sends out information about the events at our gallery that includes their facebook, Instagram alerts. They plan to mail out our November poster to all their members. On November 14 a local winery will be at the gallery to hand out wine bottles to those who have ordered them online. It is a well advertised holiday shopping event that we will participate in. We provide the Chamber with a piece of art from one of our artists who want to help. Let us know if you will give one of your artworks for their fund raiser.

City of Wenatchee Announces...

The rescue of a 12'x30' ceramic mural replicating the promise of North Central Washington will be placed in public view again. The artwork was part of the entry to the former 9th Street SeaFirst Bank. The work was one of Walter Graham's creations that provided artworks for many of their banks throughout Washington. The Wenatchee City Hall under construction will return this marvelous piece back to public view.

END OF YEAR SHOW

Circle your calendar for Friday October 31. ENTRY for the November/December show begins on Halloween, and continues Saturday, November 1, 11am-3pm. See Prospectus (Attached).

Community Helping Gallery

This wonderful Bev Doolittle print 'Sacred Ground' was donated by a gentleman who read the front page article in the World about the future of Two Rivers Gallery ($500-$800 eBay). The print goes on display in November as a silent auction fund raiser, starting at $300.

The article brought in many large donations of cash, new members and member renewals

Another large donation of nice brushes will sell at the gallery for $2 each. Many stamps and stickers will be sold on Facebook, Market Place. New colored pencils and art books were also given to the gallery for a total value of several hundred dollars.

We will set them out to generate more donations.

Notes Of Interest:

- Member Pat Fisher has passed away. She showed her paintings here and attended our First Friday events bussed in with other seniors from Bonaventure. She showed her watercolors in galleries in the San Francisco area before moving to Wenatchee. We will miss Pat.
- A Zoom virtual memorial service for Robert Wilson was held on October 4. It was presented by his son Rainn Wilson who spoke of his father's life. Many of Robert's friends spoke over the internet presentation. Pybus is accepting donations for an Art Scholarship in his name.
- We are applying for a $5000 Block Grant to help the gallery with our loss during the 3 month state wide shut down.
- Six new artists joined the gallery in September.
- Free light table...call Russ Hepler, 509-470-5944.

October Featured Artist

Annie Jones, stands among her impressive pastel show that continues until October 29. We are seeing more folks experiencing the truly outstanding work of our local and regional artists. Annie grew up in Leavenworth and presently resides in Belfair.

Featuring
LANDSCAPE AND
ABSTRACT PAINTER...

MARTI LYTTLE

Local artist Marti (Martha) Lyttle dreamed of being at the easel and after years as a Seattle area psychotherapist retired to discover her talent as a landscape artist. After moving to Wenatchee she became enamored by the natural arid climate and environment of the east side of the state.

Her impressionist side discovered regional landscapes such as the sage hills, meadows, rivers and rock cliffs rich with varied colors and glowing light. Her paintings brought her to paint scenes that evoke a sense of calm serenity and invite a narrative.

As time went on Marti was ready for a break from representational art to experimentation with design techniques. She moved on to abstract painting using mixed media, having been successful in oil and acrylic paints.

In 2019 she was chosen to paint the Centennial poster for the Washington State Apple Blossom festival that shows a springtime view of orchards rich in colors and glowing light.

Marti exhibits art at Two Rivers Gallery and in other venues on both the East and West sides of the mountains.
